Bio

Ananya is a college student who frequently uses electronic gadgets for coding, online classes, projects, entertainment, and communication. She wants to upgrade her laptop and mobile but has a limited budget. She is comfortable buying second-hand products as long as they are reliable, properly tested, and in good condition.

Core Needs

- Needs affordable electronic gadgets within her budget.
- Wants products that are tested and verified before selling.
- Needs clear information about the product's condition and specifications.
- Wants to compare different products and prices easily.
- Needs a trustworthy seller with warranty and return options.

Frustrations

- Difficult to know whether a second-hand gadget is actually in good condition.
- Concerned about hidden defects or battery problems.
- Some sellers provide incomplete or misleading product information.
- Comparing prices between different sellers is tedious.
- Worried about buying a device that may stop working soon.
- Unsure whether the asking price is fair.
